Dear Dr.Peter Bosshard,

It is our pleasure to get your letter dated February 18, 2009 to our General Manger, Mr. Fan Ji-xiang. Our company attaches great importance to your concerns mentioned in it.

Being one of the most competitive and internationalized corporations of China, as a leading global brand in the hydropower, SinoHydro Corporation has always attached great importance to advocate a harmonious society, protect the environment and fulfill our civic duty and social responsibility, while formulating our international strategy to develop overseas infrastructure projects. We not only comply strictly with the global and host country's laws & regulations, but also act in accordance with ISO9001 (2008), ISO14001 (2004), OHSAS18001 (2007) and other international standards for construction building. So far, we have won a good reputation home and abroad and we are dedicated to focusing that in future.

What you referred to as social responsibility, environmental protection etc., specifically have some technicality. As we know, the present international organizations have some different views and various standards on building dams. Besides that the WCD you mentioned has offered its certain principle & standard, others such as International Commission on Large Dams (ICOLD), International Commission on Irrigation and Drainage (ICID), International Hydropower Association (IHA) also have.

As a whole, We kindly suggest that, during your visit to Beijing you can compare notes with our advisory experts from the Chinese Society of Hydroelectric Engineering, and Chinese National Committee on Large Dams. And we'd like to arrange that for you.

With my best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Liu Fengqiu
